

Stockholm has been appointed the eco-capital!

Stockholm has been appointed the eco-capital of Europe and Dandelion would like to contribute by inspiring people to make a conscious ecologic choice. Sweden just came home with 20 medals, 19 of which were women's – the Swedish arm wrestling ladies are truly world class and you have the opportunity to meet some of them at the Swesport trade fair in Dandelion Sportswear's spot D32. We sincerely hope that 2010 will be a true eco-year.

We have lots of great things going for us this year. For example, we will sponsor Heidi Andersson and Team Sweden during the arm wrestling World challenge in Gothenburg, Sweden, in March. We supply them with our own, specially designed, organic team t-shirts.

Arm wrestling is a relatively anonymous sport worldwide but is quite big in Sweden. For example, Sweden came in as the fourth most successful nation with only Italy, USA and Russian ahead of them. Sweden came home with 20 medals of which 19 were women's; one was awarded the men's team. In other words, the Swedish women's arm wrestling team is world class and you have the opportunity to meet some of them at the Swesport trade fair in Dandelion Sportswear's spot D32. If you want to see more world class arm wrestling, you'll have the chance to do so on the 8th of March (International women's day) in Gothenburg. The competition, World challenge, founded and arranged by Heidi Andersson, is the world's largest arm wrestling competition for women. Heidi Andersson has won the world championship several times and is Sweden's most famous arm wrestler.

Dandelion sportswear will participate in Swesport in Kistamässan, Stockholm the 17th and 18th of January. You'll find us in spot D32.

We at Dandelion sportswear hope that we can inspire others to make green decisions and do what they can to make the world a better place. We also look for more agents and distributors in Sweden and the other Nordic countries.
